

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION

In these challenging times, Trinity Bristol and Cambridge Junction have come together to offer a £3,000 commission to a D/deaf or Disabled Artist(s) to create work for an online audience.

We will commission one new piece of work and want this brief to be as open as possible so you can respond in a way that best suits you as an artist. We welcome artists of any practice and working in any artform to apply.

We want to commission:

- A brand-new online performance, exhibition or art work that can remain available to experience online for a period of time – we want people to be able to experience your work safely from their homes
- One artist who identifies as D/deaf or Disabled, or a collective of artists where at least 50% of the collective identify as D/Deaf or Disabled
- Work that will be completed and distributed online before the end of October 2020

We expect applications to include:

- A consideration of audience access within the commission fee
- Confirmation that artist access costs are covered by the commission fee or by Access to Work or similar

We'll provide:

- A commission fee of £3,000
- Producing support: we don't want anyone to be put off because they don't have producing capacity at the moment
- Marketing and digital content support: we want your work to reach far and wide
- The platform for sharing your work: Trinity and Cambridge Junction's social media platforms, and those of our partners, are readily available to platform your work

At Trinity, we programme using a 'Programming Forum' which you can find out more about here. The final decision on who receives the commission will be made by a forum of local artists and community members from both Trinity and Cambridge Junction.

To apply:

- You can submit a video or audio recording up to 5 minutes in length, explaining who you are, your idea and how you'd spend the money

OR

- Submit a word document with no more than 900 words explaining who you are, your idea and how you'd spend the money
